FAQs.

Q. Which are the main attractions featured in this Hong Kong and Macau tour package for 6 days?

Ans. These tour packages tend to feature classic attractions in Hong Kong such as Victoria Peak, Avenue of Stars, Tsim Sha Tsui Promenade, and an entire day at Hong Kong Disneyland. In Macau, you are in for visits at The Ruins of St. Paul’s, Senado Square, A-Ma Temple, and popular casinos or shopping venues. Daily activities are designed to mix sightseeing, entertainment, and learning experiences for an enhanced tour experience.

Q. Is the Hong Kong Disneyland ticket in the package, and how long is allocated there?

Ans. Yes, it has a one-day pass for Hong Kong Disneyland. All the rides, shows, and parades can be enjoyed by the visitors. It is an entire day for Disneyland, leaving the traveler along with the family ample time for visiting various lands, meeting Disney characters, as well as witnessing the nighttime fireworks display.

Q. Do we need a separate visa for both Hong Kong and Macau?

Ans. Indian passport holders do not need a visa for Hong Kong for 14 days' duration, and for Macau for 30 days. There is, however, a possibility of regulations changing, so it's advisable to verify the most updated visa regulations or contact your tour agent at the time of booking the package in order to have a hassle-free experience of visiting these destinations.

Q. Will stays at the hotel and intercity transfer between Hong Kong and Macau be included?

Ans. Yes, the tour package usually covers 3-star or 4-star hotel stays, morning breakfast, as well as ferry or private transfer between Hong Kong and Macau. Smooth transportation allows you to appreciate scenic views on your transfer between these dynamic cities.

Q. Is it possible for me to tailor the itinerary, such as adding days or visiting Ocean Park or Ngong Ping 360?

Ans. Most tour companies offer customizations according to your interests. You can have additional nights, include sites such as Ocean Park, Ngong Ping 360 Cable Car, or even shopping or spa days. Discuss your needs with your booking consultant upon booking in order to customize the tour according to your choice.
